The accident occurred at 10.30 occock and two physicians worked over him with applications of electricity without being able to restore him to consciousness.

At 12.30 o'clock he was removed from the theatre to the Hotel Candee. Immediately after Riordan was mocked out, Joseph Dunfee, the local parrer whose blow killed Donovan on Sug. 5, 1893, put on the gloves for a two-ound set-to with Firssimmons. In the second round Dun.ee landed a right-hand blow on Fits's jaw, resulting in a clean knock down, the first, Fitzsimmons declares, he was ever given. He was so dased when he regalated his feet that be could not see Dunfee's hand when it was extended at the cail of lime.

It was rumored on wall street this afternoon that there had been a heavy withdrawal of gold from the Sub-Treasury to-day, and the report was given more credence by many people when it was learned that Assistant Treasurer Jordan refused to state the amount of withdrawals or to name the persons, banks or companies that had obtained the gold. Mr. Jordan said that he could not give information on those points, and it could only be learned from the official report to be issued in Washington on Monday. Some people believe the amount withdrawn to-day exceeded the sum taken out yesterday.

The injured man breathed his last at 250 clock this morning. After 3 o'clock the began to sink rapidly, respiration growing fainter with every minute, until finally, with a few spasmodic contortions, be died. The physicians, a few members of the company and Mrs. Fitzsimmons were present. It is claimed that Riordan conceased his real condition from the stage manager, who would have prevented his appearance had he known it.
